

PHOTOS FROM THE FILM

Thank you for supporting this project.

The photographs contained in this book were created while embedded with paramedic crews during the COVID-19 pandemic and were later featured in the documentary film Honorable But Broken: EMS In Crisis.

While the film tells the story through interviews and motion picture storytelling, this companion volume allows viewers to spend additional time with the moments, people, and environments that helped shape the project.

At the time these photographs were created, they documented current events. Today, they serve another purpose: preserving a visual record of a pivotal period in healthcare and emergency medicine.

As a former military medic, paramedic, educator, and documentary photographer, I have spent much of my career documenting people who serve others under difficult circumstances. My goal is not advocacy or sensationalism, but credible representation. I believe that authentic documentation helps build understanding between professions and the communities they serve.
